The name of the Society is INSPIREHEALTH SOCIETY

The purposes of the Society are:

- (a) To provide an integrated approach to health and healing that promotes personal autonomy, choice and the many ways in which the mind, body and soul can contribute to healing and well-being.
- (b) To empower people to participate in their own health and healing and to encourage life-long pursuit of overall well-being.
- (c) To provide a safe, caring, and nurturing environment which honours the unique qualities and needs of each individual.
- (d) To provide information about and access to a wide variety of healing modalities and health professionals who honour and support the principles of healing.
- (e) To provide the opportunity to develop self-care skills through an experiential approach.
- (f) To educate the public and health professionals about the importance of a person-centered approach to health and healing, thereby integrating biomedical and holistic approaches to health care and well-being.
- (g) To provide a learning environment in which health care students and professionals further their understanding and skills with respect to the principles of healing, healing interventions and a holistic integrated approach to health care.
- (h) To help people interpret and understand complex medical information so that they can make informed choices that are right for them.
- (i) To update and maintain curated databases of supportive cancer care research and resources for patients and health professionals that inform, educate, inspire and empower.
- (j) To support the exploration of safe and potentially effective new therapies for life-threatening illness
- (k) To educate the public about the important role that prevention can play in the maintenance of good health and well-being.
